U.N. Group Disapproves Of U.S. Bases on Guam

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—U.S. military bases on Guam are "incompatible" with U.N. Charter principles, a U.N. subcommittee on American Pacific territories has decided.

The subcommittee recommended economic diversification to reduce Guam's dependence on military expenditures.

The view was stated Tuesday in a final report on Guam, American Samoa and Micronesia forwarded to the 24-nation U.N. Colonialism Committee.

The subcommittee recom- Afghanistan, Australia, Ethiopia, Honduras, India, Iraq, Poland and the United States. Its reports need not be unanimous.

It welcomed new legislation giving Guam its first gubernatorial election in November, 1970, but expressed regret that the election was not scheduled for this year.
